Silver Metal and Tinsel Trims Features of Fall Millinery

By ELOISE.
Entire hats of tinsel cloth or hats of other fabrics trimmed with this metal cloth are classed as first fall hats. Gaudy satin, a crinkled satin, tulle, velvet, duvetyne and crepe are some of the cloths that travel with this new material. Although silver tones and metal trimmings are featured in the majority of models, many new hats are graced with feathers of the weeping willow and other types.

As to colors for fall, gray and silver tones predominate, but black and navy and brown are good as usual. A new henna shade called fall-fire is being used extensively and all shades of brown, including a new paprika and redskin are favored. Pleasant shades are also good.

Shapes are medium and large for street and afternoon wear with the small hat for sports. Short backs are still good and off-the-face persist. Here are three models which show the season's fad for things metallic. The large black velvet hat at the left is designed for either street or dress wear. It has a large and most flattering brim which is outlined in steel bands. The trim is so unusual that it can scarcely be named but it looks like a feather or bow made of soft silver-toned velvet studded with steel beads and fastened with a cut steel ornament. The hat in the center has both crown and drooping brim made of silver, with a rose tint in it. It is faced and trimmed with black velvet. Gray velvet is softly draped to make the hat at the right. It is a suit hat and is embroidered in a grape leaf design. The grapes themselves are made of shiny silver nailheads. All three of these

STUDY IN COURTESY

Most Polite Young Man Lapses Into Savage Love of Frightening the Helpless.

A young man who comes of a good family and luxuriates in the ownership of a high-powered car came down in an elevator of an office building. Womans were in the car. With instinctive politeness, he removed his hat.

In the lobby he stepped aside to permit a woman to go through the revolving door ahead of him. Then he stepped into his automobile which had been waiting at the curb. Traffic was thick. He moved slowly and at the next corner a policeman's signal brought him to a stop near the crossing line.

A white-haired woman with a child clinging to either hand started across the street. She was visibly confused by the traffic and impressed with the responsibility of crossing safely with the children. The young man rolled in his cushioned seat, with his arm at rest on the steering wheel. The signal was still against him. Yet he did this heartless thing in violation of all the rules of consideration and apprehension of the rights and feelings of others. When the woman and child were directly in front of his machine he sounded his horn, a noise maker of the most clamorous type, to attract the attention of the traffic policeman. The startled woman in her effort to get out of harm's way stumbled and almost fell. The children cried out in alarm. The fright of all three was

Mysterious "Killer" Appears in Florida

MILLVILLE, Fla.—People in this section have long been in almost nightly fear of the prowling of some animal, said to be a panther, which makes nocturnal raids on pigsties, goatsties and now on attacking chickens, cows, one family reports the loss of seven head of cattle recently, the remnants of the carcasses having been strewn generally over the landscape after the unidentified animal had evidently satisfied its appetite. Pigs have been heard to squeal at night, and that is the last of them.

Persons who have tried to get within range of the animal have failed so far, and some who have caught sight of the beast describe it as one of varying hues. Some say it is black, others tawny, while fishermen declare it is spotted.

No More Ice

Frigidaire, the complete home refrigerator, cools itself. It requires no ice. It electrically maintains an atmosphere in the food compartment at least 10 degrees colder than is possible with ice. It freezes ice cubes for table use. It freezes dainty creams, ices and desserts. Frigidaire is a product of General Motors Corporation, and will probably cost you less to operate than you now pay for ice. Let us send you a booklet which tells the story of Frigidaire. Or, you can see Frigidaire in operation at our store.
